OHIO SENATORS SENT TO PEN FOR GRAFTING MADEPETS BY WARDEN

While Other Thieves are Without Favor But Entitled to Greater Respect Because They "Swiped" More Than a Measly $200

(By United Press)
Columbus, O., Dec. 28.—Convicts number 41,703 and number 41,704, who until yesterday had been Senator Isaac E. Huffman, of Butler county and Senator L. R. Andrews, of Lawrence county, respectively, ate their first meal in the Ohio penitentiary this morning.

It consisted of coffee, bread and jelly. The new prisoners also donned prison clothes this morning, were "mugged" and put through the berillon measurements. On Monday one of them will be assigned as clerk in the chaplain's office and the other clerk in the prison clothes shop.

They spent last night in special sleeping quarters in the hospital, where Rodney J. Diegle, former

ANOTHER ESCAPE AT WORK HOUSE

Two more of the Rev. Workman's charges escaped from the city workhouse late yesterday afternoon when Wesley Brown, colored, serving a 228 day sentence for shooting another colored youth last October, and Charles Helpman, serving a 180 day sentence for petit larceny, made a break for freedom.

Helpman made a getaway shortly after the noon hour, when he took advantage of the superintendent's absence, to skulk into the lobby and jump from a window of the wash room.

A fusillade of bullets followed Brown, who was loading stone into a wagon that had backed into the workhouse. Relaxing his watchfulness for a moment, Workman did not notice Brown as he stooped and crawled under the wagon and past the horses. Then crouching low, the negro ran up Central avenue to North street, followed by several shots. A pursuit of the prisoners was useless and both are still at large.

TRACTION CAR JUMPS BRIDGE

(By United Press.)
Cincinnati, O., Dec. 28.—Three persons injured last night when a Monmouth street traction car left its rails on Central Bridge, spanning the Ohio river and dropped 35 feet to the street today were believed to be dying at the Cincinnati hospital. Seven others sustained serious injuries.

John Ratchford, the motorman, was unconscious this morning. He is one of the three dying.

The car was late in making a trip to Cincinnati, investigation revealed today and the motorman was operating at high speed. There is a red light warnings crews on the curve.

"DRY" DETECTIVES MUST REMAIN COOL

Dayton, O., Dec. 28.—Mayor L. S. Crickmore, of German town, today announced that hereafter in his court when "dry" detectives appear to prosecute liquor law violations they must give evidence of being inwardly "dry." Late yesterday he dismissed a charge against George Curd, saloonist, of violating the midnight closing ordinance when three dry sleuths testified they were allowed $17.46 for drinks in gathering the evidence.

TURKEY BALKS AT PEACE PROPOSALS

So Committee Adjourns Until Next Monday Morning

(By United Press)
London, Dec. 28.—The Balkan and Turkish Peace delegates resumed negotiations at St. James palace at 11 o'clock this morning for the purpose allowing Turkey to present her counter proposals, and after a session of an hour and a half, the conference was adjourned until 4 p. m. Monday. Rechid Pasha, chief of the Turkish plenipotentiaries presided.

The Ottoman envoys formally declined the territorial proposals advanced by the allies, and then offered the Porte's counter proposition. The Balkan delegates asked time to consider and the adjournment was ordered.

When adjournment was taken it was officially announced by the secretary of the peace conference that the Turks had voiced the Porte's refusal to accept the peace terms of the allies and then had presented the Turkish counter proposals. Various of the Balkan envoys made unofficial observations concerning the Ottoman proposition and then M. Venizelos, of the Greeks proposed adjournment.

HE'S REJECTED

SIR THOMAS LIPTON

Boston.—When Sir Thomas Lipton was here recently Mayor Fitzgerald told a "funny one" on Sir Thomas who is known as one of the world's most distinguished bathers. It happened at a soiree in London, attended by Mayor Fitzgerald and his family and the titled yachtman. A number of those present began joshing Sir Thomas, trying to make him reveal his ideal of a life partner. He finally said: "If you want to know who lady Lipton is going to be, she is right here in this room." Pointing at the Mayor's attractive daughter, he continued: "Stand up Rose." Miss Fitzgerald stood up and retorted, "I won't accept you, Sir Thomas, you're too fickle. After the laugh had subsided, Sir Thomas remarked: "At last I know how it feels to be rejected."

STRUCTURAL IRON WORKERS OF M'NAMARA STRIKE FOUND GUILTY OF A CONSPIRACY

Only Two of Forty Defendants are Spared by the Federal Court Jury—Deliberated Many Hours Upon The Cases.

Indianapolis, Dec. 28.—Daniel Buckley of Davenport, Ia., and Herman Seifert, of Milwaukee, were declared not guilty and freed and the thirty-eight other defendants in the dynamite conspiracy trial were found guilty on 52 counts of conspiracy and unlawfully transporting dynamite in a verdict brought in at 9:50 o'clock this morning.

The jury brought in a general verdict. The defendants sat with faces grim and set. A light of happiness was on Buckley's and Seifert's faces. Wachmeister, of Detroit, cried like a baby at the verdict.

Judge Anderson dismissed the jury after thanking them profusely for "their good and faithful work." The jury was out 40 hours and 25 minutes.

Court adjourned until 10 A. M. Monday.

KEYLOR HELD FOR NEXT GRAND JURY

William E. Keylor, 22, 1146 North Washington street, was held to grand jury on a charge of grand larceny following his arraignment in municipal court Saturday morning upon an affidavit sworn to by his brother-in-law, W. H. Carlisle, of the same address.

Keylor was arrested in Dayton Friday afternoon as told in Friday's issue of the Daily News. Before taking french leave of his sister and brother-in-law with whom he made his home, he appropriated a brand new suit of clothes, a revolver, shaving mug, $2.00 in cash and a blank check. He filled the check out and cashed it at Henry Keller's saloon, receiving $10.73 in payment. Other misdemeanors were committed by the young man. Sergeant Grant returned with him from Dayton last night.

No charge of forgery was placed against him this morning, Carlisle satisfying himself with prosecuting him on a larceny charge. His bond was fixed at $200 which he was unable to furnish.

WILL ABROGATE RUSSIAN TREATY

Washington, Dec. 28.—Next Wednesday, January 1, 1913, marks the day on which the treaty between Russia and the United States will be abrogated.

This international agreement between the Czar and Uncle Sam was entered into in 1832 and was terminated because of Russia's refusal to grant passports to American citizens who were of the Jewish race. While the relations between these two countries have been of a very cordial nature, in a diplomatic sense, matters began to grow acute when eminent American citizens of Hebrew lineage were subjected to the humiliation of being denied entrance into Russia, solely because of their religion.

There had been some desultory agitation in regard to this matter from time to time but it came to a head last summer when Oscar Straus, former minister to Constantinople and recently a candidate for Governor of New York, and Jacob Schiff, a New York banker, applied to the Russian government for passports as American citizens and were refused.

This hampering of two eminent American citizens, whom this country had frequently honored, precipitated the agitation which culminated in the action taken by Congress abrogating the treaty of January 1st, of this year. Steps have been taken, however, to continue friendly relations between the two countries.

WOOSTER MAN IN BAD BRAWL HERE

George Kennedy, 35, a Wooster man, is in the city hospital suffering from a stiletto thrust sustained some time last night during a drunken brawl on east Wayne street. His condition is not serious. Patrolman Ed Wallace found Kennedy in the C. H. & D. depot on east Wayne street at 11 o'clock Friday night. He was unconscious and lying on a bench inside the building. Upon his return to consciousness early this morning, the man gave police a wild tale of adventure to which no credence was attached. He said he got into an argument with a stranger early Friday evening. Both had been drinking hard and a quarrel ensued which terminated in a clash. In the brawl, Kennedy was slashed with a stiletto. His wound is not serious.

After an investigation, police concluded that a search for the "stranger" was useless and ordered Kennedy removed to the city hospital.

"Gray Wintry Woods"
("Lucile")
Costume of Mole Crepe Charmeuse with the New Pannier Effect and Ultra Long Shoulders. Muff and Hat of Mole Fur and Velvet.

LADY DUFF-GORDON, the famous "Lucile" of London, and foremost creator of fashions in the world, writes each week the fashion article for this newspaper, presenting all that is newest and best in styles for well-dressed women.

Lady Duff-Gordon's new Paris establishment brings her into close touch with that centre of fashion.

Lady Duff-Gordon's American establishment is at Nos. 37 and 39 West Fifty-seventh street, New York City.

By Lady DUFF-GORDON ("Lucile")

I AM showing you this week a charmingly chic costume that I call "Gray Wintry Woods," because it is of just the gray shades that the skies and woods assume in Winter. It is created in mole crepe charmeuse. The long, very much buttoned skirt has a pannier drapery that is very new, as both sides are drawn down in the back and slipped through a stunning embroidered buckle, similar to that on the girde. This does not show in the picture, but it is one of the most effective touches. Notice the new buttoned front. The bodice and skirt are in reality severely plain, but the buttons, nearly fifty of them, add a decorative touch that is very novel. The collar and cuffs are of rare old Valenciennes.

Big Hats and Little Hats

The Picture Hat Petite of Gray Felt, with the Sir Joshua Reynolds Neck Band.

The Perfect Picture Hat of Green Felt and Brown Skunk Fur, Showing Large Bird of Paradise on Extreme Edge of Brim.

Are not these hats delightful? They show the latest Parisian tendencies, and wearing one of these models, no smart woman can be at fault.

And just a word in praise of the small close-fitting cap of moleskin and gray velvet that the model in the first picture is wearing. It is just a round "night-cap" affair, made of fur. It is the hat coquette, and fittingly tops the "Gray Wintry Woods" costume.

It would seem that no scheme is too fantastic for feathers this season, and the wondrous ways in which ostrich plumes are manipulated—not to say tortured! on some of the newest millinery models, is more often calculated to arouse amazement than admiration. On some medium shaped hats of heavier velours for example, where the brims have a slight and long upward roll at each side, the crown will be encircled by quite a modest little ruche or fringe of feathers.

And then—suddenly this quiet little feather will go completely mad, and spring outwards or upwards or undulate sideways in a series of crooked curves and in consequence will transform the hat completely when the point of view permits of a full display of these feathery freaks.

Sometimes again—and really, this is rather pretty—a highly curled ostrich feather will be combined and effectively contrasted with absolutely straight strands, the curled part clustering closely about the crown and the other falling, fringe-fashion upon the brim.

Then what do you think of a hat which provides its own feather boa? It sounds surprising, but that it is an actual fact and fashion, is likely to be proved to you before very long by the public wear of the new model, which is at present only being privately displayed to the privileged few.

Imagine, therefore—until you so thus see or wear it—a moderately sized hat encircled by one of those curled and fringed feathers, which, after meeting at the back, sweeps over and under the brim, and is enough to curve round the neck, and be thrown over the shoulder. Knots of moire ribbon are introduced here and there into the feathers which are here arranged in circular form, and as a contrast of color, or at any rate, shadings is also contrived. The general effect is distinctly attractive, more especially when a colorless corsage or coat, or both, be worn. And nowadays, of course, the high collar is somewhat difficult of discovery, for though it regularly makes a reappearance on a few of each season's models, it is just as regularly refused by any and every woman who values her charm and her comfort.

Another feather adorned hat, not quite so extreme in style, is of black velvet, with a broad inner and outer brim bordering in a soft shade of beige. For its trimming there is just one long ostrich feather, whose cloudy softness of black merges eventually into beige, this delicate color coming against the black velvet of the crown, inasmuch as the plume starts its career right under the brim at the left side and then curves outwards and upwards, ending in a sort of cascade, which showers its softness all over the crown.

Another velvet hat, long and narrow in shape, and deep peacock blue in coloring, has its crown guarded closely at either side by an ostrich feather, also beautifully blue at first, but shading towards the centre into dahlia red and purple, the two "stems" being just crossed in front, while the quaintly curved feathery ends repeat this arrangement at the back, but far beyond the brim.

There are, in fact, feathers on almost every hat, whatever the fabric or size or striking effect. One of the new possibilities of the familiar trimming being the presence of an encircling fringe on a hat whose soft quatered crown and wide "floppy" brim are of peacock blue and green shot silk.

The coloring of the plumage is lovely too, for each feathery strand shows a centre of blue, flushed round with rose.

Up-to-Date Jokes

Two young fellows recently attended a tea for which they had bought tickets at ten cents each. The profits were to go toward a treat to the aged poor. One of them, after consuming four cups of tea, six ham sandwiches, a plate of bread and butter, two tea cakes, five jam tarts and four large buns was passing his cup for the fifth time when he turned to his friend and said in a serious tone:

"I think every one should encourage a thing of this sort. It's for a good cause, you know."

Sandy was walking along the road in deep thought, and it was his misfortune that he brought him to earth again with:

"Hello, Sandy! Thinking of the future, eh?"

"No," replied Sandy, moodily, "Tomorrow's the wife's birthday, and I'm thinking of the present."

Hunting Squire—Murphy, you told me that was good hunting on your land, why, we've been here an hour and haven't seen any game.

Murphy—Just so, sir. But the game is the more hunting you have.

Quack Doctor—Yes, gentlemen. I have sold these pills for over twenty-five years, and never heard a word of complaint. Now, what does that prove?

Voices from the Crowd—That dead men tell no tales, guv'nor!

"Do you call this a pint?" asked the sharp servant-girl of the milkman.

"Well, it won't do. When we want condensed milk we'll buy it at the grocery's."

"Yes."

"Well, it wasn't a year before we were married that you told me you never could be happy without me."

"He—Yes, and I believe I also said that marriage would make another man of me."

A small boy was selling papers at a railway station where there were some twenty or thirty people waiting for the train.

A comedian standing by called to the newsboy:

"I say, boy, would you like a new job?"

"Yes, sir," replied the boy. "What is it?"

"Well," said the comedian, "my master wants a fool."

"Oh, does he?" said the newsboy. "Is he going to sack you, or keep you?"

An American gentleman one evening at dinner happened to get a hair in his soup, and, raising it on his spoon, said to the waiter:

"Pat is this an Irish hair (hair)?"

"Begor it is, sir," said Pat. "But it took an American bound to catch him."

MY SECRETS OF BEAUTY

By Mme. Lina Cavaleri, The Most Famous Living Beauty

No. 204 --- Causes and Effects of Nervousness

IT is not easy to separate the causes and effects of nervousness, but let us try. I have given much thought and study to nervousness as a destroyer of beauty, and my investigation has led me to believe the following:

That nervous women are self-centred women. Stop thinking about yourself. Widen your life's outlook by becoming interested in more people and things. That will, if the interest is really deep and genuine, enormously lessen the tension.

Nervousness is often caused by wrong mental habits. Scattering thoughts cause a sense of haste and worry. Haste and worry cause nervousness. Concentrate. Do one thing at a time and while you are doing it think of nothing else.

The bad habit of wasting your energy upon non-essentials breeds nervousness. I know a woman who used to gossip for an hour at a time by telephone. Of course she became neurasthenic. Not only does much talking waste time but it wears and tears the poor nerves. The nervous woman should train herself to talk less. A great deal of unnecessary talking is done.

Mme. Lina Cavaleri, the Most Famous Living Beauty.

Improper food is one of the great causes of nervousness. The nerves, like every other part of the body, are in need of nourishment, and that insufficiently nourishing meals the process of starvation begins for the nerves. Starved nerves cause us to become irritable, slightly and unreliable. Our judgment is discounted by ourselves and others. We are not complete persons because we lack one of the essentials of the complete person, a sound nervous system. We are liable to explosions of temper which alienate our friends and which imperil our business or professional careers. And the remedy is so simple, merely eating nourishing food. Eat beef, not too well done, green vegetables and salads, coarse-grained bread and raw or stewed fruits. Persist in this, and drink plenty of water between meals, and a few weeks will mark a change for the better in you. Eat not too much nor too little. Study yourself and you can gauge the amount better than anyone else can.

Fear causes nervousness. Don't permit yourself to become a coward. Shame yourself out of unreasonable fears. Remind yourself that your world is within yourself, not without, and that no one person can seriously affect your life, except yourself. Regard discouraging circumstances as punching bags on which to try your strength.

Boiling the food, the American habit, is responsible for much nervousness, and again we go back to the red life stream, for the boiled food, not being ground up well by chewing, lies in the stomach or intestines and rots, entering the blood channels finally as poisonous matter. The nerves reject such food, and the neurasthenia increases.

Summing up briefly, the results of my study of nervousness, I should say if you discover yourself suffering from untended nerves the remedies are two, not one of either, but both. Practice extreme self-control and remove, or at least modify the cause. If you are overworking, overeating, overplaying, or overworrying, that is a cause. Change the habit.

For the redness, give careful attention to your diet. Avoid rich, spicy foods. And be sure that nowhere is your circulation restricted, neither by tight garters, tight sleeves, corsets, stockings nor shoes. While you cannot change the shape of the nasal bone except by an operation, which is always dangerous, you should by gentle and persistent massage downward, and pinching, be able to change the shape of the fleshy part of the face.

say if you discover yourself suffering from untended nerves the remedies are two, not one of either, but both. Practice extreme self-control and remove, or at least modify the cause. If you are overworking, overeating, overplaying, or overworrying, that is a cause. Change the habit.

Mabel inquires: "Kindly let me know if there is anything which will make my complexion lighter. It has a yellowish tinge. If there is anything it is harmless, or will it produce bad effects? Also are there certain foods which if taken in excess will cause an unnaturally greasy complexion?"

Pasty, and sweets, gravies and fats in any form may have the effect you last describe. For a yellowish tint indicates that your liver has struck. Don't give it so much to do. Eat more vegetables and fewer meats, more fruits and no candy. A few drops of ammonia or tincture of benzoin or peroxide of hydrogen in the water in which you bathe your face will gradually whiten the skin, but use these aids only occasionally as they are harsh agents.

Newest White Hope, 221 Pound Giant, Scores Knockout

Jess Willard, Texas Husky, Floors Kearns In The Eighth Round

WILL CHALLENGE WINNER OF PALZER-MCCARTY FIGHT.

New York, Dec. 23.—"Soldier" Kearns of Brooklyn, is eliminated today from the heavyweight championship competition, following his knockout by Jess Willard, the Texas cowpuncher at Madison Square Garden last night. And by the same contest to stock of Willard flashed upward. A straight left to the soldier's jaw during the first minute of the eighth round ended the battle which was one of the best contests between heavyweights staged in this city in many months. Willard will demand a fight with the winner of the Palzer-McCarthy fight.

Showing a Surprise.
The knockout was as surprising as it was decisive. It came at a time when both men were going at a clip that made such a thing unexpected. The rugged Kearns appeared much stronger than the tall Texan and to all appearances he was able to last twenty rounds if necessary. Willard had shown to advantage in the early rounds, but his exertions had plainly sapped some of his strength and the muscular Kearns, recognizing this fact, had been carrying the fight to Willard for three rounds before the finish.

Kearns Outweighed.
The ringside weights showed Kearns at 156 pounds and Willard at 221 pounds. The Texas towered eight inches above his opponent, registering 6 feet, 6 inches.

Willard knocked Kearns off, his feet twice before the knockout was delivered.

Those Larruping Larrys

(By Grantland Rice)

Owner Herrmann has announced that he is through with Larry McLean to a finish and that Leader Tinker will have to worry along without the lanky catcher. Which calls attention to the fact that the name "Larry"—in the way of ball playing ability possessed by its owner—carries the highest average in the game. From the list we recall Larry Lajoie, Larry Doyle, Larry Gardner and Larry McLean. The Larry can all bat around .350, but unfortunately the last named wouldn't confine his "batting around" to the ball yard.

Or to recall the chorus of a certain ballad:
"You utter crack 'em every day against the left field fence—
"But now you're on the Hog Train, for there ain't no bloke in sight who bats for 'em but around .300, ho, who bats which further recalls the that "bat around brigade" of the old days is fading out. They can't fight the booze and Walter Johnson at the same time; they can't toy with old Doc Bacchus and cope with Ty Cobb, and it still requires a pretty fair eye and a fairly steady hand to hit one "where Wagner ain't."

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 23.—The Princeton hockey team left for home today, having a second victory to their credit over Cornell, winning last night's contest five goals to three. Captain Baker scored three of Princeton's marks.

New York, Dec. 23.—For the third time in succession Columbia University stands champion today in the annual chess tournament, the twenty-first of a series with Harvard, Yale and Princeton. Columbia finished with a 4-1 record, Harvard was second with 3-2 points.

Texas Cow-Puncher Who Scored Big Hit in Gotham Last Night.

McGraw Foolish Like a Sly Fox

One of the chief reasons for calling John McGraw the Napoleon of baseball is his ability to size up a man and play his disposition to the advantage of the Giants.

A few days ago Art Shafer, one of the most promising young players in baseball, announced he would not play next year. McGraw, who is in vaudeville in Cincinnati this week, immediately comes to bat with a hint that he intended making Shafer the Giants' regular shortstop next season.

Get the angle? Immediately after reading this, Shafer, an ambitious youth, becomes filled with a desire to shine in Gotham and get that job. Then he pens a fine denial, is misquoted reports to McGraw and everything is lovely. Foolish man, this McGraw.

Most Training Camps Selected By Managers

New York, Dec. 23.—While several major league clubs have not selected spring training quarters, most of the clubs already have settled this important point. The Giants, as usual, will go to Marlboro Springs, Tex., and there seems to be no doubt that the Highlanders will fit themselves in Bermuda. The White Sox are going to Paso Robles Hot Springs in California, a delightful health resort. The Boston Red Sox and the Pittsburghs are booked again for Hot Springs, Ark. The Cleveland Naps will prepare at Pensacola, Fla., and the Cincinnati Reds at Mobile. The Athletics will train in San Antonio, while the Chicago Cubs probably will visit Tampa or St. Augustine, Fla. The Boston Nationals will get ready at Savannah. The St. Louis Cardinals and Browns will train near the Mount City. The Brooklyns have not decided yet where they will go, but it is said that towns in Georgia and Texas have the call.

McGraw Issues Call.
[Manager McGraw is preparing a formal notice to be sent to all of the Giants' young players telling them to report at Marlboro Springs on February 15. McGraw will be there to receive them. In the list will be Demaree, Goulalt, Shore, Perryman, Robertson, Hanley, Burns, Stock, Groh, Harlley, Jacobson and several others. The regulars will report to Wilbert Robinson in St. Louis about February 26, so that they can proceed in a body to the camp.]

Scrub 4 Years; Gets Letter

Providence, R. I., Dec. 23.—Leon Hartshorn Carr of Brown University played through all of his college career on the football squad without taking part in a single Varsity contest. When the letters were awarded this autumn Carr received his "B" and it was generally agreed upon as the most popular act which could have been performed.

New York, Dec. 23.—Although the place for holding the next annual regatta of the National Association of amateur oarsmen will not be officially determined until the next meeting of the National Association which will be held in two months, it is reported today that it will probably be held in Boston. At the present time both Baltimore and Philadelphia are making strong bids for the event.

For four years in rain and shine he reported regularly to the field for football work with the "scrubs." Day after day he donned his football uniform and went out to battle against the regulars. Day after day he saw other players chosen from the ranks and sent out on the Varsity team to battle for Brown, yet he never received the call himself.

Chance Has Chance of Life With New York Highlanders Next Year

New York, Dec. 23.—France Chance will overlook one good bet if he allows unreasonable mercenary prejudices to stand between him and the management of the New York Americans. For the Johnson circuit appears to have finally tumbled to the necessity of putting a real team in New York—a combination capable of upholding a fight for patronage against the champion Giants.

Connie Mack, the wily manager of the Athletics, has already turned over to Frank Farrell a very promising shortstop in Claude Derrick. It has been learned on excellent authority that this wizard of the American league does not propose to let his generosity stop there. He will also send along to the Hilltop—or the Polo Grounds if the Kitties play there the coming season—"Wally" Schang, the sensational young catcher he netted by draft from Buffalo.

Mack, who boasts more promising young talent than any rival, has never been known exactly as a philanthropist. When he begins to toss things Farrell's way it looks very much as if the local American leaguers are on the brink of a baseball millenium.

George Stallings, who will manage the Boston Nationals next year, developed Schang. The youngster was the mainstay of the Bison catching corps last year. There is no better judge of youngsters than Stallings and the "Big Chief" picks Schang to develop into one of the classiest receivers of the major leagues inside a season or two.

The former pilot of the Kitties was discussing his "find" while in New York a couple of days ago. "Schang is a finished minor league catch," said Stallings. "He has a few things to pick up before he will shine in the fastest company. But he has no faults that cannot be overcome with a little coaching. He is a wonderfully accurate thrower but gets his peg away a trifle slowly. When he learns to shift his feet more quickly he should be pretty nearly as fine a peger as Jimmy Archer. Schang is a good hitter and exceptionally fast as a backstop."

THE GRIPPING POWER OF JOURNALISM.

The newspaper life is a hard life—pleasant for some, perhaps, who sit apart in quiet offices away from the field of battle, where they only occasionally hear the faint echoes of the heavy artillery from afar off—but for those who are on the firing line, where the fighting is thickest and where the muscles are as taut as whip cords under the strain of conflict, it is only a little shot of hell.

Some of us who have grown gray in the service look back over the field marked by the fierce struggles of many a conflict, and wonder why we have not given up the fight and retired to the peace and contentment that may be found in sylvan scenes where the harshest sounds that greet the ear are the songs of birds in the tree tops or the rippling of brooks whose waters are hastening onward to the great rivers journeying to the sea.

This though only comes to us, however, when we are weary and spent with the exhausting work of the day—when body and brain refuse longer to respond to the prick of the spur or the bite of the whip. When the new day dawns and we awaken with renewed strength and courage we no longer think of retirement but are eager once more to return to the fray.

How tame and common place all other occupations seem after one has once experienced the excitement and thrills of newspaper life! Few men who have worked under the leadership of skilled journalists on a metropolitan daily ever find contentment elsewhere. Many have turned their backs upon newspaper work firmly resolved never to return to it, only to discover, after a few months' absence, that the old life, after all, is the most satisfying even though not the most remunerative. Such men are never happy until they are once more back at their old tasks.

Wherein lies the charm that holds us to the newspaper business? It certainly is not the salaries paid, for they average much smaller than in other lines requiring the same quality of ability. It is not the ease of the work, for it there is an occupation that is a constant grind seven days in a week, it is journalism. Perhaps it may be found in the fact that the journalist is in intimate touch with the life of the day and age. He feels the throb of its pulse beneath his finger tips. The sweep of events that are making history pass beneath his eye. He knows the men who are shaping the destinies of the nation, who are working for the betterment of humanity; or who seek to undermine society, that they may fatten on its vices.

His group of readers, whether they number five hundred or half a million, regard him with respect. If he conducts an honest and progressive newspaper, he is a man of influence, be he reporter or editor.

The work in which he is engaged is inspirational. If he has no heart or soul, his paper shows it and the people shun it. But if, on the other hand, he is a man of strong convictions, and possesses a discerning mind, and is quickly responsive to the demands and needs of humanity, however manifested, his readers give him such appreciative support that he is moved to greater endeavors to merit that esteem. It is this confidence bestowed upon him that holds many a tempted editor to the straight course.—The Editor and Publisher.

Real Life Characterizes Literature of Today

By JOHN BURROUGHS,
Naturalist and Essayist

IT must be said that literature has gained in many respects in this hurrying, economic age. It has GAINED IN POINT AND PRECISION WHAT IT HAS LOST IN POWER.

We are more impatient of the sham, the make believe, the dilatory, the merely rhetorical and oratorical. We are more impatient of the obscure, the tedious, the impotent, the superfluous, the far fetched.

We have a new and a sharpened sense for the REAL, the VITAL, the LOGICAL. The dilatory and meandering methods of even such a writer as Hawthorne tire us a little now, and the make believe of a Dickens is well nigh intolerable.

WE WANT A STORY TO MOVE RAPIDLY; WE WANT THE ES-SAY FULL OF POINT AND SUGGESTION. WE FIND IT MORE AND MORE DIFFICULT TO READ BOOKS ABOUT BOOKS, AND ALL WRITING "ABOUT AND ABOUT" WE ARE IMPATIENT OF. WE WANT THE THING ITSELF; WE WANT CURRENTS AND COUNTERCURRENTS—MOVEMENTS AND RAPIDITY AT ALL HAZARDS.

We are used to seeing the wheels go round; we feel the tremendous push of our civilization all about us; we see the straight paths, despite obstacles, that the controlled physical forces make over the earth's surface; we are MASTERS OF THE SCIENCE OF SHORT CUTS in all departments of life, and both literature and philosophy respond to these conditions. Pragmatism has come in, dogmatism has gone out; the formal, the perfunctory, the rhetorical, count for less and less; the direct, the MANLY, the ESSENTIAL, count for more and more. Science has cured us of many delusions, and it has made up the poorer by dispelling certain illusions, but it has surely MADE THE EARTH A MUCH MORE HABITABLE PLACE than it was in the pre-scientific age.

IS HAVING A GRAND TIME AT HIS BIRTHPLACEGOVERNOR OF VIRGINIA EX-TENDS WELCOME TO PRES-IDENT-ELECT

(By United Press)
Staunton, Va., Dec. 28.—Governor Mann, of Virginia, this afternoon extended an official welcome to President-elect Wilson as the crowning event of the second day's entertainment in honor of the future President's two day visit to the scene of his birth and boyhood.

Grouped about the Governor as he spoke from the steps of Mary Baldwin Seminary, were the leading Democrats of the state, the municipal officials, judges of the Supreme Court and a little knot of old inhabitants and friends of Mr. Wilson's boyhood.

Prominent among these latter was Frank T. Ware, a negro, who was entrusted with the care of little Woodrow during his baby and boyhood. Mr. Wilson spoke at some length in answer to the warm felicitations of the speakers.

Earlier in the day the President-elect had received calls from thousands of visitors, who have made a gala day of his visit and who were anxious to greet him before his return to New Jersey.

This informal reception was broken up by a parade at noon which Mr. Wilson reviewed from a grand stand erected in front of Public School No. 1.

LOPPING OFF
GOOD JOBS AT
STATE HOUSENEW ADMINISTRATION IS GO-ING TO START OUT
ECONOMIZING.

(By United Press)

Columbus, O., Dec. 27.—The patronage committee of the next house of representatives decided at its meeting here today lop off many jobs and cut down the expenses of the next session.

The salaries of all positions will remain the same. Instead of eleven $5 a day clerks, there will be but 6, five doorkeepers instead of eight, fewer porters than last year and eleven stenographers, ten pages and two cloak room attendants.

"Efficiency will be the slogan," declared Chas. L. Swain, of Cincinnati, the choice of Gov.-elect Cox and the Democratic caucus for speaker.

"I turned down a girl today who wanted to be a stenographer. She had powerful political backing but was not a good typist."

Swain will appoint the stenographers and pages himself, but the committee, and John R. Cassidy, of Bellefontaine, the next clerk, will pick the other help.

The committee will recommend to the house when it meets Jan. 8, that a committee of three composed of the speaker, clerk, and sergeant-at-arms, be empowered to fire employees for cause and hire successors.

The senate patronage committee also met late today. It was composed of Haas, Herner, Finnrock, Cunningham, Hudson and Dolison and W. V. Goshorn, Clerk. The same number of employees as last year will be employed.

Neither committee will give out the names of the applicants selected until it reports to its respective house in January.

UNDERWORLD
JACK ROSE

Jack Rose, the gambling partner of Lieutenant Becker, and the chief witness against him for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, has written the most sensational series of articles ever published.

They are remarkable for two reasons. The first, because of the startling revelations, and the second, because of the real service in telling the world the appalling facts of the underworld and its methods.

In all sincerity he has written these stories, first and foremost attempting to be of service. In all truth they will further the cause of reform and righteousness in this country. In no other way could the facts be secured as by this man, who has spent 20 years of his life in actual personal touch with criminals of every type, not as an outsider who interviews them, but as one who works among and with them.

Jack Rose knows what he writes about as Morgan knows banking or as Edison knows electricity.

The series of articles have been bought at a tremendous price, by The Pittsburg Dispatch and will be published in the Sunday issue, beginning next Sunday, December 29. The demand for The Sunday Dispatch, which will publish the articles exclusively in this territory, will be enormous, and arrangements should be made with newsdealers without delay for the papers containing this series. Remember, the first of this series will be printed in next Sunday's issue of The

SOCIETY WELCOMES TANGO DANCE AS LATEST FAD

Chicago, Dec. 28.—(Sp.)—To those of you who are in the position of being a tango dancer, the Chicago society is a very interesting one. It began at the bachelor's ball when two of Chicago's best barons—society leaders of course—decided to bring such capers as the "bunny hug," the "bear cat," the "turkey trot," the "Barbary coast walk back" and the "Argentine tango."

But they reckoned without their wives and daughters, who had been taking private dancing lessons in the forbidden "tango." And though the band played decorous waltzes and modest two-steps, the women insisted upon tangoing until the best barons marshaled their cohorts and left the hall.

Most Suggestive Dance

With the unusually tight skirts that are worn today, the Argentine tango is most suggestive. Never before has the young society woman consented to combine the revelations of the bathing beach with those of the formal ball gown.

The Argentine tango has been shown in some of the carabaz shows, but managers of musical comedy will have none of it. Indeed, when the manager of "The Enchantress" was asked for some of his chorus people to illustrate this dance, he held up his hands in horror.

DANDY OF PARIS LIKES OUR STYLE

ADMITTS SURPRISE, AND EVEN FINDS POLICEMEN "NICE."

New York, Dec. 28.—Andre de Fouquieres, the leading dandy of France, today assured citizens of New York that they dress well.

The base canard that the American spends his time in rolling up dollars instead of "dollaring up" to the proper standard, is thus pierced through and through. For De Fouquieres is the "dresiest man" in the world, in the judgment of Parisians. He has now been in this country nearly a week.

He regretted, in describing his agreeable surprise at the correct attire of New York, that he had to leave his beloved France with only a black coat and a black "tote" trousers, a derby and a black "tote" trousers.

"He admitted that when he reached the St. Regis hotel he found 24 invitations for luncheons, dinners and dances.

"The New York man is remarkable," he said. "He dresses very nicely. It is the adventurer who dresses without taste.

"Even your policemen are nice. I ask the way to somewhere. The policeman smiles and immediately informs me that which I have requested to know.

"I like your turkey trot when it is done nicely, but I have given my patronage to a dance we call the Maxine Brazillienne. It is like a one-step.

"I have brought some melodies beautiful with me, for which I have written the words. Those I have dedicated to Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

"Just before I left France I received a nice letter signed by 43 Indian rajahs. They give to me their good wishes for the time I am to spend in America.

"I make a diary, as a great editor in Paris has asked me to conserve my impressions."

WOMEN FASTER READY TO WRESTLE FOR FUN OR CASH

Seattle, Wash. Dec. 28.—Dr. Linda Burfield Hazzard, the fasting specialist under penitentiary sentence for manslaughter, and out on bond pending the hearing of her appeal, is coming back into the limelight, which she deserted at the conclusion of her 40 day fast last summer.

Dr. Hazzard, who weighed 142 pounds at the beginning of the fast and 102 at the end, now weighs 146. Her diet, she says, is strictly vegetarian, and she eats only two meals a day.

She says she takes daily sun, air and tub baths, and for exercise plays baseball, handball and tennis and boxes, wrestles and runs. She is forty-five.

"I will box, wrestle or run a footrace with any amateur sports-woman, any age, for money or for fun," she says.

SELF-APPOINTED WATER METER COMMITTEE HAS VERY STORMY SESSION

Swap Horses in Middle of Stream But Still Leave Public Firm in Belief That Frank Harman's Plan is Best For Lima.

Lima's minimum water rate beligerents swapped horses in mid-stream last night.

Riding out on a steed with bitter opposition to Director Harman's minimum rate of $6.00 per year, they turned, did the "flip" and rode in on a $4.00 per year minimum rate.

As W. Elmer Rudy, jovial Bull Moose, earnestly put it, it was six in one hand and a half dozen in the other. After a stormy session marked by proposed amendments, discussion and partisan feeling, near-clashes and other disorders, the self-appointed citizens committee, consisting of Gus Kalb, chairman, Dr. R. D. Kahle, G. A. Rumbaugh, C. J. Brotherton and E. E. Clem, carried the day with their special report. This document advocated five principal points, namely:

That all water be sold by meter.

That the city furnish, install, and own all meters.

That the meters be purchased under competitive bids.

That all consumers pay a minimum rate of $4 per year for 15,000 gallons of water or less.

That all consumers pay for all water consumed in excess of 15,000 gallons per thousand gallons, or at the rate of 80 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The report will be submitted to Mayor Shook with petitions to enforce same. Whether or not the mayor will force the recommendations upon Director Harman and thus complicate the already tangled situation is a point of conjecture. Mayor Shook has lent a ready ear to the complaints of the disgruntled water consumers and it is generally believed that he can be counted upon at this time. If, however, unnatural conditions are forced upon the director, it is understood that he will tender his resignation.

Director Harman's proposal now in force contemplates a running scale in proportion to the quantity of water used. The schedule is as follows:

For the next 30,000 gallons used, 13 1-3 cents.

For the next 30,000 gallons used, 13 1-3 cents.

For all additional water up to 225,000 gallons, eight cents.

For all water consumed in excess of this, 7 1-3 cents.

One Rate.

The "Kalb" Committee's report recommends a uniform rate for all consumers regardless of the amount of water consumed and that the flat rates as charged by the former administration be retained until the meter system is established.

Director Harman, however, was sustained in the minimum rate clause which he has fathered and which is the main principle in the new meter system. His plan of compelling consumers to buy their own meters is repudiated by the Kalb committee.

Warm Contention.

Last night's meeting attended by more than 100 citizens, was marked by a bitter fight over the minimum rate proposition. Safety Director Edwin Blank, his trusty lieutenant, Mack Mayer, Alderman Flinchbaugh and other Socialists opposed the clause as a principle and fought to the last ditch for its obliteration. The "whip hand" of the committee held, however, and the battle terminated in a compromise whereby the minimum rate was reduced to $4.00 per annum—Director Harman's plan on a smaller scale.

W. Elmer Rudy and Socialist Alderman Clarence Flinchbaugh added a pyrotechnical display. In a rousing speech, Rudy condemned the committee as a gang of disgruntled howlers who were kicking their heads off because Director Harman had made inspection of the premises of water consumers and had compelled everybody to pay according to the legal rates of the city and their consumption.

Flinchbaugh retorted and declared that the big corporations might withdraw before he would capitulate to granting them concessions. Others joined in the "bible" until order was restored. The meeting lasted for nearly two hours.

Supporting Mr. Dudley are James Burris, Henry Troy, Arthur Talbot, Foley Gibson, Lottie Grady, Beatie Payne and Alberta Ormes and a large chorus.

LYRIC THEATRE

If you have not seen that great play that the Barrett Players are offering at the Lyric Theatre this week, make no mistake; see "The Deep Purple" tonight. Last chance to see this wonderful play, so filled with heart interest and comedy situations; the play that is entirely different from the ordinary plays and which the Barrett Players are producing in a manner that compares favorably with the higher price productions. For the first three days of next week they will offer Elsie Ferguson's great starring vehicle, "Such a Little Queen." Last performance of "The Deep Purple" Lyric Theatre tonight at 8:15.

PIG ROAST

Next Big Feature Planned By The Fire Laddies.

Final arrangements for the New Year's eve pig roast of the city firemen were completed last evening at a meeting of Chief Mack, assistant Chief Byster and the captains of the three houses. The banquet will be given by Maurice Goeschius, J. E. Grosjean and others. As a reward for their valiant work in the recent Goeschius and Grosjean fires, both men presented the firemen with a check for $10.00.

The banquet will be served at the central house, with the firemen of all departments, Mayor Shook, Safety Director Blank and others present.

PARCEL POST TO REDUCE COST OF OBTAINING FOOD

WILL BRING CITY MAN AND FARMER CLOSER TOGETHER.

CONSUMER CAN BUY CHEAPLY AND DIRECTLY FROM PRODUCER.

(By United Press.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—The new parcels post is primarily intended to put the farmer and the city man in close touch, cutting out commission men and other profit-taking folk between them.

Only time and thorough tests everywhere can tell how beneficial this first attempt at parcels post will be.

If you live in a city from which start rural routes or on such a route, you are almost sure to benefit at once by parcels post.

"Local Rate" Lowest.

Goods sent from such a rural route into the city (or vice versa) get a much lower rate than the general rate for the "first zone"—the 50-mile circle around your postoffice.

The rural routes average about 20 miles in distance. This means that for about 20 miles out in the country around such a city its people may secure farm products at a low rate.

The rate for goods coming into the city is called the "local rate." This is 5 cents for the first pound, and 1 cent for every additional pound up to 11 pounds, making 11 pounds 15 cents. This is much better than the express companies do over similar distances.

The regulations permit the carrying of eggs, butter, vegetables, dressed fowl, fruits and similar products, properly packed.

It is up to the city consumer and the farmer to get acquainted and try sending farm products by parcels post.

The farmer ought to try putting little advertisements in the city newspapers, as the English farmers do in the London papers, and the city man with something to sell ought to try advertising in the country paper and farm journal.

Big Cities Pay More.

Big cities like Chicago and New York have no rural routes. People living in such cities will have to get their farm stuff at the "first zone" rate, which begins at 5 cents for the first pound and increases 2 cents a pound up to 35 cents for 11 pounds. On 10 pounds of butter the rate would thus be 32 cents.

As a matter of fact, there are within the city limits of most large cities truck garden patches which could use the city delivery for sending produce to city customers under the lowest or "local rate."

Eventually the department will probably work out a system of c. o. d. shipping.

LOST HER DRESS-BUT WON HER HUSBAND

The Unique Romance of a Pretty School Teacher Who Had Forsworn Men and Marriage to Solve the Mystery of the Ancient Cliff Dwellers--Now She's Rich Mrs. Wickes!

TO her sensible, serviceable woolen walking costume and to her own bravery and resolution, a former public school teacher of Pittsburgh, Pa., owes her recently acquired position as wife of the son of one of Colorado's richest ranchers and mining men.

This is literally the Romance of a Brave Girl's Woolen Skirt, for it was on that memorable day had been of any more flimsy material, the happy young husband would not now be alive to tell the story. But in owing his life to her—and the skirt—and in winning her for his bride, he robbed the scientific world of one of its most enthusiastic and promising young archaeologists, a young woman of brilliant attainments, who, though exceedingly pretty and femininely graceful, had forsworn men and matrimony in favor of a career among the rapidly increasing number of women who are Doing Things.

At the close of the school year last Spring in Pittsburgh Miss Imogen Clarke resigned her position in one of the upper grades—where she was near the head of the line for promotion to the coveted post of principal—and set out for the land of the prehistoric cliff dwellers in Southern Colorado.

From early girlhood archaeology had been Miss Clarke's favorite study. She had made herself mistress of the lore of ancient Egypt and Babylon, had deciphered for herself the hieroglyphics on tablets and pottery fragments dug up by the great German, Schliemann, from the ruins of ancient Troy; had compared Schliemann's evidence that the most ancient of the cities under the Trojan site had been tributary to the great empire of lost Atlantis with similar evidence that the very ancient Toltecs of the Yucatan peninsula had sprung from Atlantean ancestry and had formulated her own personal theory that the Colorado and Arizona cliff dwellers were also Atlantean in their origin.

To seek for evidence in support of this theory had long been Miss Clarke's fixed purpose. In preparation for a modest expedition into that desolate region under her personal leadership she had lived frugally, laying aside the larger part of her salary as school teacher. Last Winter a legacy of a few thousand dollars enabled her to broaden the scope of her researches—she would devote her whole future to the study of civilizations—old, dead and buried. She was not yet twenty-six years old, and was almost alone in the world. For her companion she selected a sensible and robust distant relative, a middle-aged spinster, Miss Helen Doherty, whom she had known from childhood as "Aunt Nelly." Before her friends realized that they were serious in their adventurous purpose, Miss Clarke and "Aunt Nelly," properly outfitted, were en route to the Navajo country.

At Pueblo they completed their equipment, which included three pack mules besides their own mounts and a guide, who was also an old-time worker for the little expedition. A week later they had arrived safely at the Mesa Verde, where stands the famous restored "Balcony House," declared by Dr. Edgar L. Hewett, of the School of American Archaeology, to have been the citadel where the ancient cliff dwellers made their last unsuccessful stand against their marauding enemies from the plains.

Making Balcony House their headquarters and base of supplies, the sturdy woman companion began their careful inspection of every promising cave and cliff throughout that region.

She was innocent of all knowledge that, in the meantime, Fate—which is no respecter of archaeology—had been commiserated by Cupid as his aid in bending her to that tricky god's old familiar purpose. Young Leroy Wickes, son and heir of the millionaire rancher and mining man of that name, was returning from the direction of El Paso with a small party of prospectors. If young Wickes hadn't got separated from the party forty miles to the south of Balcony House and wandered to the westward of the trail, archaeology might still have been saved the loss of Miss Clarke. But Fate saw to it that every hour of that eventful day saw them headed steadily toward each other, though each was profoundly ignorant of so much as the earthly existence of the other.

Miss Clarke and her companion had arranged to camp that night under an overhanging cliff, with eloquent possibilities in its weather-bent sculptured front, some ten miles to the south of Balcony House. Early in the afternoon she found it necessary to send the guide back to headquarters for some scientific instruments which had been forgotten. Thus the two ladies were left to their own devices for nearly three hours. They put in their time exploring the ledge on which their camp was located, which was the margin of a small canyon. Except for this ledge—some thirty feet from the bottom of the canyon—there was hardly a foothold on the face of the nearly perpendicular walls on either side. Suddenly, as they scrambled along the ledge, Miss Clarke stopped with a startled expression on her pretty face.

"Did you hear that?" she asked of her companion.

"I thought I heard a shout or a groan," said Aunt Nelly.

"There it is again," said Miss Clarke. "It comes from the bottom of the canyon."

She peered over the edge of the ledge, with Aunt Nelly holding her firmly by the back breadths of her stout woolen walking skirt.

"It is a man," she said. "He's lying all huddled up at the foot of the cliff. I believe he lost his foothold and fell down the opposite cliff and is seriously injured. There! His head has dropped—he's unconscious!"

"What can we do?" asked Aunt Nelly. "We can't get down there to help the poor fellow, and it will be hours before Andrew returns."

"We must do something," said Miss Clarke. "Without assistance the man may die. Ah, I have it!"

And she began to unbutton her woolen dress—which was a substantial affair with bodice and skirt in a single garment. Before Aunt Nelly could realize the girl's purpose, Miss Clarke stood in linen petticoat and under-bodice, with her dress in her hands. More astonishing yet, with her keen-bladed sheath knife she was slashing the strong fabric into strips three or four inches wide.

"Why, Imogen!" exclaimed Aunt Nelly. "What on earth?"

"This woolen cloth is very strong," explained Miss Clarke, as she slashed away at her dress. "Out of these strips we can make a rope strong enough to bear the weight of a man, and long enough to reach the bottom of the chasm."

In a few minutes the rope was ready. First they lowered a flask of brandy, on the chance that the man might regain consciousness at any moment, refresh himself with a taste of the spirits, and, with their aid, and the rope's reach the ledge. But they soon realized that the sufferer was too badly injured to do anything for himself.

"Aunt Nelly," said the girl, "I'm going down the rope to see what can be done for the poor fellow. You take a turn of the rope around that splinter of rock and hold fast!"

Aunt Nelly was equal to the occasion. The brave girl seized the rope and lowered herself over the ledge. She was strong and possessed of a splendid nerve. Bracing her feet and knees against the face of the cliff, she went down hand over hand, and presently was kneeling beside the injured stranger, with his head in her lap, pouring brandy down his throat.

But now the two women were confronted with a most serious difficulty. The injured man might die if allowed to remain lying on the sun-scorched rocks at the bottom of the canyon until the return of the guide. He was still dazed and was losing much blood from a great gash in his scalp. Miss Clarke shouted these disturbing facts to Aunt Nelly, who shouted back:

"I'm as strong as a man. I'll haul him up and we'll carry him to the camp. Tie the rope firmly about his body under the arms."

They tried it—Aunt Nelly hauling on the rope at the top and Miss Clarke pushing as far up as she could reach from the bottom. But soon Aunt Nelly had to admit that the weight was too great for her, and the sufferer had to be lowered again. Then he suggested something:

"If you can manage to get back to the ledge," he said to Miss Clarke, "I can refasten the rope about me, and perhaps both of you can get me up there." His voice was weak owing to loss of blood.

Aunt Nelly managed to haul Miss

Clarke up—though the effort left her very red in the face—and they were soon relieved to see that the young man was ready for them to haul away. With Miss Clarke's aid—taking up the slack of the rope with a turn around the rock splinter—slowly but surely, they managed to raise the almost unconscious man to the ledge. As quickly as possible they carried him to their camp, where the flow of blood was stopped. When the guide reappeared, he was the most cheerful member of the party.

Introductions on both sides added to the general satisfaction. Young Mr. Leroy Wickes proved to be a cultivated and engaging youth, and it needed only half an eye for Aunt Nelly to perceive that he had lost his heart to the pretty archaeologist from the start.

They took him back to their comfortable headquarters at Balcony House. The period of his convalescence was also a period of ardent courtship—slightly tintured with an exchange of views on archaeological matters. As young Wickes's horse had cantered off in search of his comrades in the prospecting party on noting his rider's disastrous attempt to negotiate the chasm, the rich rancher's heir induced Miss Clarke to abandon her explorations for the time being in order to give him a mount back to his home in Pueblo.

In Pueblo, a few weeks later, a wedding ceremony converted Miss Clarke into Mrs. Leroy Wickes. It is on the authority of a relative of that fortunate and happy young man that he has reason to hope that his wife will abandon further original researches in the field of archaeology, her new joys and duties of wifehood having caused her to lose interest in the possibility of the old Cliff Dwellers having a direct ancestry, leading back to lost Atlantis.

"Swinging at the End of the Rope Which Miss Clarke Had Made by Slashing Her Dress into Strips, the Unconscious Young Man Was Finally Drawn and Pushed Up to the Ledge."

Mayor Shook Listens to Complaint of Self-Appointed Water Meter Committee—Harman Backed By Popular Opinion Stands by His Flag.

Fifteen minutes after he had forfeited his bond by non-appearance in municipal court at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Peter Van Voorhis, civil war veteran, 67 years in age, called at the mayor's office and wished to collect the $10.00 posted for his appearance. His demand was turned down.

Van Voorhis was arrested Friday afternoon after he had summoned police to the home of Mrs. Bert Myers, 142 East Eureka street. He had participated in a gun play and a small 22 calibre revolver was taken from him. He was locked up charged with disorderly conduct, and later released. Van Voorhis was given a warning against a recurrence of any trouble at the Myers home where he rooms.

Because he returned with a lawyer after a respite of 5 days and for a time contemplated fighting a drunkenness charge against him, Floyd Baber, arrested on last Saturday night for intoxication, was fined $5.00 and costs by Mayor Shook this morning. Baber declined to plead guilty to the charge after an argument with the mayor. His delay cost him the maximum fine of $5.00 and expenses.

Irwin Weller, another plain drunk, drew a fine of $1.00.

WHITE PIGEON BROUGHT LUCK

Patched on Wheel Box of the Fishing Boat and Gave It Fine Maiden Trip.

It is one of the pet beliefs of the fishing folk that when a white bird flies aboard a ship at sea good luck is bound to follow. And if a white bird happens to fly aboard a brand new craft it insures the vessel with all kinds of joy forever. Out on Georges, two weeks ago today, a little pigeon fluttered down on the deck of the good ship Mary, perching on the wheel box. Result—good luck. Although Capt. Whallen's boat struck mighty hard weather, it came through without a scratch and landed 139,000 pounds of mixed ground fish, mostly hake and cusk, which is pretty nearly the record catch for a maiden trip.

The pigeon looked as though it had had some pretty hard luck itself before it fell in with the Mary, however. One of its wings was badly torn, as though a gull or a hawk had taken a piece out of it. The men aboard took good care of the pigeon, giving it plenty of food, although they made no attempt to confine it to any one part of the vessel. The bird made friends with every one, especially the cook, and refused to eat except out of the men's hands. As the Mary came up the harbor this morning, the bird was decked. Abreast of Governor's Island he suddenly took wing and flew away. The men said it looked to them as though the bird had recognized his surroundings in the inner harbor and had flown for home—Boston Globe.

HORRORS!

MAYOR GAYNOR RARES PRIVATE LIFE OF GEO. WASHINGTON AND OUR FOND BELIEF HE WAS GREAT MAN IS SHATTERED.

(By United Press)

New York, Dec. 28.—Daughters of the American Revolution and Sons of the Cincinnati arise!

Take arms in defense of the nation's greatest hero and popular idol, the father of his country!

Here is the latest slur to be cast upon his fair name and by no less prolific a shatterer of idols than the Hon. Wm. J. Gaynor, mayor of New York, enemy of Dr. Parkhurst.

The general impression of Washington is largely mythical. We think of him as a good man who told the exact truth, always, and who never got angry. This is all in the main true, but as a matter of fact he was of warm blood and prone of passion. He is known to have sworn like a trooper at times. And his face was pitted; and he had bad teeth and other physical imperfections.

Gaynor's comments on Washington are included in a criticism of a book, "Washington and Lincoln," written by a Brooklyn minister. The mayor says further that Washington was not the equal in knowledge of history, economics and government of the men who surrounded him.

Ladies, if You Want to Live Long, Work!

By Miss VILLA FAULKNER PACE, Lecturer and Writer

MODERN WOMAN IS DYING BECAUSE THE LIFE IN HER IS BECOMING STAGNANT FOR WANT OF REAL WORK. SHE OUGHT TO GET DOWN AND SCRUB THE FLOOR, DO HER OWN WASHING, IRONING AND GENERAL HOUSEWORK IN ORDER BETTER TO ENJOY LIFE. SHE OUGHT TO THINK FOR HERSELF ALSO INSTEAD OF RUNNING TO LIBRARIES TO GET OUT A BOOK AND FIND OUT WHAT SOME ONE ELSE HAS THOUGHT.

I know what I'm talking about when I urge women to work with their hands and work hard. For six years I was connected with a sanitarium for nervous invalids. The head physician and myself both came to the conclusion that what sent most of our women patients to us was not too much, but TOO LITTLE, WORK.

Of course I know there are many poor women who are overburdened and worn out with domestic drudgery. It's one thing to keep one's own floors clean and quite another to spend twelve or fifteen hours out of the twenty-four for six days in a week with the scrubbing brush in one's hand.

But in general I think we WASTE TOO MUCH PITY on the man or woman who performs manual labor. For what else was one given muscular energy? If this energy is not worked off in some way it wastes itself in furious nervous vibrations within the body, and ALL HEALTH IS BOUND TO RESULT.

RUSSEL ARMSTRONG IS PERMANENTLY DISBARRED

(By United Press.)

Toledo, O., Dec. 28.—Russell L. Armstrong, son of Judge S. A. Armstrong, of Lima, O., was permanently disbarred today by the Lucas county circuit judges. An order suspending Morris Neff, of Cleveland, son of Judge M. A. Neff, from practice for six months was issued by the same court. Armstrong was charged with threatening to divulge the defense of a woman accused of murder unless the prisoner's wife give him money. He was also charged that Armstrong harrassed the woman.

Neff was accused of conspiring to end a juror to the hope of Prosecuting Attorney Cline in an effort to discredit a verdict. The cases were tried by the Lucas county judges because of the friendship of resident judges for the fathers of the accused.

Geno Williams, a negro wanted by police since April 18th for the assault of his step-mother, Mrs. Harriet Williams, was picked up by Patrolman Wingate in Ike Boone's south Union street saloon, Saturday afternoon. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge and drew a fine of $1.00 and costs.

The altercation of last April grew out of charges made by Mrs. Williams that her step-son had stolen a small sum of money. Williams skipped out shortly afterwards and has been working at Unionopolis ever since. He returned to Lima Saturday morning and was arrested a few hours after his arrival here.

"But, sir," quavered Algernon, "be merciful—"

"I will not!" thundered the old man. "I will have no mercy! I will strike at the father through the son! You want my daughter? Well, then, take her—take her!"

White, and shaking with malevolent triumph, he sank in his chair, and Algernon crept out of the house with a dim foreboding at his heart—Tit Bits.

SETS HOUSE AFIRE.

Matches in the hands of the little child of S. C. Freed, 110 Miller avenue caused the fire department a run shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The blaze was extinguished with a loss to the property of about $15. The house is owned by Rosa Toy.

In attempting to board a Western Ohio car at St. Marys yesterday afternoon, Clark Noble, 55, a horse dealer, slipped on the step of the interurban and sustained a fractured limb. He was brought to this city in the Williams and Davis ambulance and removed to the city hospital. His condition is reported much improved today and his injury is not regarded as a serious one. Noble lives near Galion.

BUSINESS MEN TAKING A HAND IN ARGUMENT

Intervention in the present water meter between Frank E. Harman, service director and Mayor Shook, on behalf of Director Harman will be decided upon by the Lima Progressive Association at a meeting of the directors of that body at 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoon.

President Frank L. Maier, of the progressive association, when informed of Mayor Shook's ultimatum at noon today whereby Director Harman's plan is rejected and that of the Kalb committee substituted, called a meeting of the directors of the association. A monster mass meeting is to be planned in support of Director Harman and his ideas now in force in the city waterworks department. A committee is to be appointed and a counter petition submitted to the mayor in behalf of the Harman plan. More details are to be announced later.

MISSING LIMA GIRL A VICTIM WHITE SLAVERS

Police of Several Cities Search For Ola Hauck

SENT TO MISSION IN CINCINNATI SHE MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARS.

WAS CONFINED IN LIMA'S CITY PRISON

UNTIL RESCUED BY BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB AND STARTED ANEW.

Where is Ola Hauck, the pretty 17-year-old daughter of James B. Hauck, west Wayne street, this city?

Authorities fear that the girl has been abducted and is now being held somewhere against her will. Ola Hauck disappeared from the Hope Mission on Broadway street, Cincinnati, December 20th. Since that time Lima and Cincinnati authorities have been engaged in a search for her that has proven fruitless. She is 17 years of age, light complexion, bobbed hair and tall stature.

Mrs. Mae Talmage, superintendent of the Mission, has written local people inquiring as to the whereabouts of the girl. On December 20th, after being detained at the mission for nearly two months, Ola Hauck, together with another young girl, Audrey Goodard, 19, disappeared. Post cards signed George Goodard, Ranier, Washington, found by officers of the mission in the room of the Goodard girl, gave rise to the belief that

SON OF JOHN BROWN DIES WITH DREAM UNFULFILLED

Akron, O., Dec. 28.—Jason Brown, too, had his dream, even as did his father, the immortal John Brown, who precipitated the civil war.

Jason Brown's dream, though, was a far different one from that of his famous father, whose hope was to set millions of slaves free. The son—in many ways the most remarkable of the 20 children of the hero of Harper's Ferry—aspired to some day make all men as free as birds.

"I first thought of flying when I was nine years old," he often told. "I experimented with kites, with that idea, along the same lines that finally developed the glider and then the aeroplane."

Brown made several aeroplane models, planning some while serving in the civil war, and finally entered one in a contest conducted by William R. Hearst. He declared flying possible a half century before men really flew.

He never realized his dream of flying himself, but he did see several airplanes skim the clouds.

"The happiest day of my life," he called it, when he met and talked with aviator Harry Atwood at Akron a year or so ago.

Atwood didn't take him aloft, and the old man returned to his life of a recluse on a farm near Akron—where he dwelt in a tent and cooked his meals in a "back to nature" existence.

He was still hoping that he might fly before death should claim him, when he went to live with a son at Fairlawn, where he succumbed to old age Tuesday. His funeral will be held tomorrow.

GREAT

SPREAD IS PROMISED NEWSIES NEW YEAR'S NIGHT.

LITTLE STOMACHS WILL BE FILLED AND HEARTS MADE AWFUL HAPPY.

One hundred and seventy-five Lima newsboys and grimy street urchins are going to be given the "feed" of their lives next Wednesday evening at the Salvation Army barracks. Captain Spatig, of the local Army post, last night completed arrangements for the "kid-dies" banquet. Chicken, and beef, cheese, salad, apples, nuts, bananas, oranges, candy and hot coffee are some of the things that will conspire to make the festive board groan on New Year's night when the annual "feed" is to take place. Besides this, each and every kiddie is to leave the barracks with a present—some kind of a trinket or toy.

Boys' Director H. S. Ferrell, of the city Y. M. C. A., will co-operate with Captain Spatig in taking care of the urchins. Several presents and contributions of candy and other goodies have been donated by boys from the Y. M. C. A. and these will tend to load the banquet board in the barracks on New Year's night. Merchants have also contributed toys and trinkets and sweet-meats.

Following the banquet, an entertainment is to be rendered. Rev. and Mrs. Rowley, of Findlay, talented musicians, will be at the hall with musical selections and a short program has been arranged by Captain Spatig and the army corps.

SUTHERLAND IS THROUGH WITH POLICE FORCE

SENDS IN RESIGNATION AFTER NINE YEARS OF SERVICE.

WAS SUSPENDED BY THE RETIRING CHIEF

WHEN FOUND IN CONDITION THAT WAS UNBECOMING AN OFFICER.

"I hereby tender my resignation as a member of the Lima police department, same to take effect on January 1st. "JOHN SUTHERLAND."

With the above resignation Patrolman John Sutherland yesterday afternoon brought to a close a service of nearly nine years in the city police department. Sutherland's resignation tendered to Director of Public Safety Edwin Blank was accepted, and the officer turned over his badge and other insignia to Chief Vermillion.

Sutherland's resignation was brought about by his suspension last week and the subsequent announcement of Chief Vermillion's retirement and Captain Earnest's appointment as chief of police.

Early Wednesday evening Officer Sutherland was suspended and sent home by Safety Director Blank for being intoxicated on duty. At first the patrolman thought to fight the charges and carry his case to the civil service commission, but upon consideration he decided to withdraw.

John Sutherland became a member of the city police department April 27th, 1904, and save for his two suspensions during the past six months, has served honorably and efficiently. He was recognized as one of the most capable men on the force and his competency resulted in his appointment as acting sergeant two years ago. Sutherland stated to a Daily News representative last night that he was undecided as to his future plans.

CARNEGIE PLANNING SOME MORE CHARITY

(By United Press)

New York, Dec. 28.—According to a story circulated today by H. H. Topakyan, Persian consul general, Andrew Carnegie intends soon to increase his benefactions by donating $25,000,000 for small charities. Topakyan called on Carnegie to solicit his aid for the red cross fund in Constantinople and it was during that visit, he says, that the iron master announced his new plan.

This donation will bring Carnegie's gifts to $205,000,000. Carnegie also agreed, the Topakyan said, to head a committee of prominent men to raise funds for the Balkan war sufferers.

JUST A MOMENT PLEASE, WE WISH TO SAY A WORD ABOUT THE

PEERLESS ADDITION

The time has arrived when you are thinking about buying a home of your own, or buying a building site on which to build a home of your own, you are always on the alert for a good safe, yet profitable investment; we wish to state that the time is here now, which gives you the opportunity of buying a lot in the PEERLESS ADDITION which is one of the best and most modern in every respect offered to the people of Lima in many years. An Addition that stands alone for convenience, it fronts on South Pine Street which has a street car line thereby enabling you to get to the Public Square in five minutes. Pine street is known as one of the best and prettiest residential streets in Southeast Lima. It is close to the Pine Street and St. Johns School. It also fronts on St. Johns avenue which is but two blocks from the street car line and eight blocks from the Public Square. It is built solid on every side, there being no other vacant property within the radius of many blocks, in reality, it is almost in the heart of the City, yet in easy walking distance of the Locomotive Works, Steel Plant, Willys-Gramm Plant and Gramm-Bernstein Plant.

Improvements and Valuations Are There

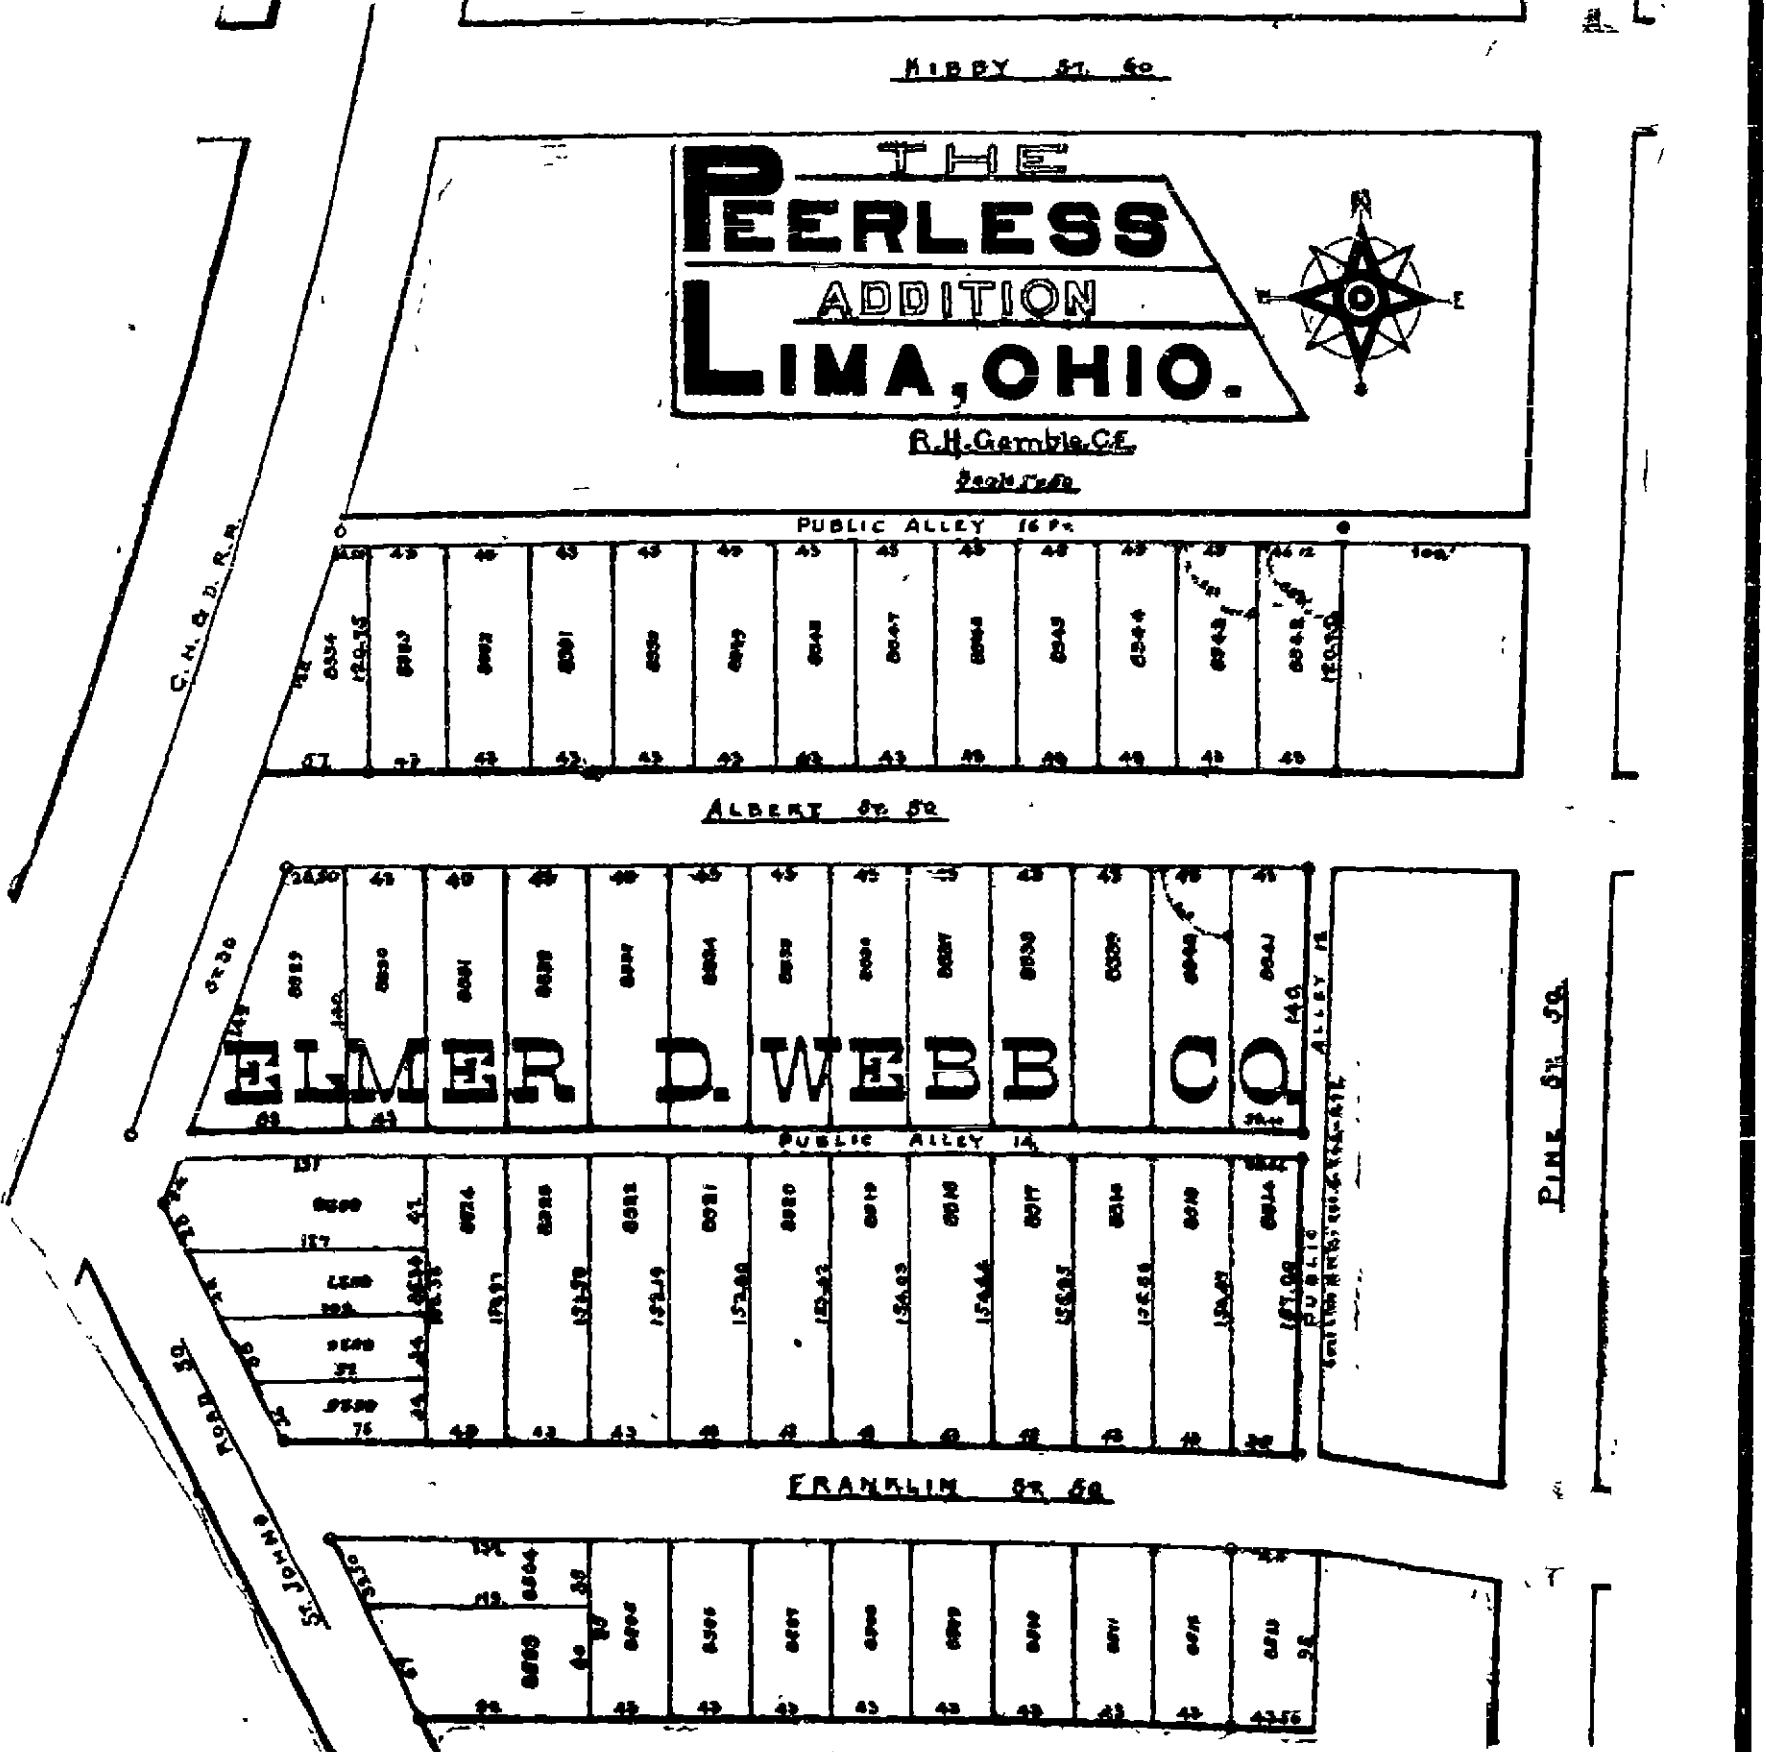

You don't have to wait for the street car line to be built, you don't have to wait for some one else to build first that you may have neighbors. Albert and Franklin Streets have been cut and graded through from Pine Street to St. Johns Avenue, sewers are in front of every lot. The gas and water will be there when you need it, you have the benefit of electric street lights, cement side walks and shade trees are included in prices quoted.

There Are None Better

in the City of Lima, none that offer more either in quantity or quality, and none that have the same improvements and real valuations are offered at the prices we are offering these PEERLESS ADDITION LOTS, we are simply stating solid facts and ask you to investigate them for yourself. Prices $500.00 to $700.00. Terms $100.00 down and $10.00 per month. If you haven't all of the $100.00 come to us and we will try to make satisfactory arrangements.
